

The Intentional Growth Center's Intentional Interim Ministry Seminar at Lake Junaluska is the solution to your unintentional interim appointment.

When is a trained Interim Minister needed?

1. When a long-time pastor decides to retire. Interim ministers help the congregation to adjust and prepare for another pastor.
2. When a pastor dies suddenly.
3. When there is an allegation or possibility of clergy misconduct.
4. When a congregation has gone through a number of unproductive ministerial appointments.
5. When a congregation is experiencing significant change or growth and needs some assistance.

The shock of a change like this calls for special leadership. Trained Interim Ministers are there to help these congregations face issues in the short term which, if left unresolved, could undermine the mission of the church.

About IGC's Transitional/ Intentional Interim Ministry Seminars

Each TIIMS Training is a three-phase process which spans six months.

Phase I: four-day intensive orientation to the work of interim ministry.

Phase II: six-month period of work in one's home parish applying some of the learning of Phase I with mentoring by the instructors.

Phase III: three-day gathering to integrate the learning of Phase I with the experiences of Phase II.

Interim Ministry Seminar graduates help congregations at a turning point face critical issues and prepare for a new, brighter future.

The Intentional Growth Center is the pioneer in Transitional/Intentional Interim Ministry training in the UMC which continues to offer the training at its finest. IGC is recognized by the General Board of Higher Education and Ministry. In the past 15 years, IGC has trained nearly 600 interim ministers who represent over 40 states.

Churches in critical transition due to misconduct, chronic conflict, long pastorate, changing cultural context, and death are a fact of life in ministry today.

Words from Past Participants

"Excellent training. I feel prepared as an interim with a good support group."

"Fantastic—God is at work!"

"One of the better Continuing ED events I have attended."

The cost of this training is $997.00 per person for all three phases in 2019.

5.0 CEU credits are given with the successful completion of Phase III.

Accommodations for residential phases are in addition to program fee.
